

The diagram illustrates the layout for a print job. It features a central white rectangular area. This area is enclosed by a blue border, which is further enclosed by a red border. A vertical green line runs down the center of the white area. Two diagonal grey arrows point from the top edge of the red border towards the center. A horizontal grey arrow points from the left edge of the blue border to the right edge. Text labels are placed within the diagram to explain the lines: 'RED LINE IS THE CUT LINE' in red text above the red border, 'BLUE LINE IS THE SAFETY LINE' in blue text above the blue border, and 'GREEN LINES ARE THE FOLD LINES' in green text to the right of the green line. Below the green line, a horizontal grey arrow points left towards the line, with text indicating where the job will be folded. In the bottom left corner, the finished and bleed sizes are specified.
